The New Stoneco

The last two months have been very busy for the Stoneco locations in Michigan. The process included the merger of S.E. Johnson Companies with Oldcastle Materials. The Michigan Stoneco group was then merged into the Michigan Paving & Materials Company (formerly Thompson McCully). The Hanson, Denniston Quarry in Monroe, Michigan was acquired upon the completion of the Stoneco and Michigan Paving merger.

Speaking of the merger, Tom Hill CEO of Oldcastle Materials said: "This deal is consistent with the Materials Division's strategy to enhance vertical integration of its activities in the Midwest. The combination of S.E. Johnson with our existing operations in Ohio and Michigan offers considerable scope for the speedy realization of value-adding synergies."

Stoneco welcomes the newly re named Stoneco Denniston and Stoneco Newport Limestone Quarries.

This is Oldcastle

Oldcastle Materials is a federation of companies, each of which retains its local identity and autonomy while leveraging the financial strength, best practices, and purchasing power of a larger group. Oldcastle Materials is an integrated construction materials group located in twenty five U.S. States. Oldcastle Materials Inc, is one of four divisions of CRH plc, the international building materials group. Additional information can be found for Oldcastle Materials on the internet at www.oldcastlematerials.com.
